Description of fiscal impact

HB 29 requires the Department of Revenue to administer a periodic review of exempt from property tax. The department must maintain public information of this tax-exempt property and report certain information to the Revenue Interim Committee. The department will require 1.00 FTE to fulfil the requirements of this new program.

FISCAL ANALYSIS

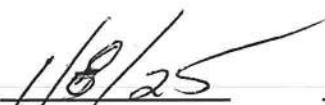

Assumptions

1. HB 29 requires the Department of Revenue to periodically review exempt property and grants rulemaking authority to establish this program.
2. The department will create rules to require approximately 1/8 of exempt properties to reapply each year, staggering the workload.
3. The department is also required to report to the Revenue Interim Committee each biennium on the exempt property reviewed.
4. It is assumed that no property is currently improperly classified as exempt. To the extent the new process reveals improperly classified exempt property, total taxable value will increase.
5. A public information database containing several characteristics of exempt property is required to be created and maintained.
6. The department will require 1.00 FTE for application processing, property review, preparing reports and maintaining the public website at a cost of approximately $100,000 per year .
