Description of fiscal impact

SB 245 directs the Office of Public Instruction to make available for free, transportation industry-specific training materials to school bus drivers during annual training on how to recognize and identify signs of human trafficking and what authorities to notify. There will be no state costs.

FISCAL ANALYSIS

Assumptions

- SB 245 requires the Office of Public Instruction (OPI) to make available cost-free, transportation industry-specific training materials that school bus drivers may use to complete a training course on how to recognize and identify signs of human trafficking and how to report concerns to an appropriate authority as part of an annual training requirement.
- There are current cost-free resources and industry specific materials and courses available for school bus drivers to complete as part of their annual driver training.
