Description of fiscal impact

HB 535 revises the uniform criminal extradition act and has no foreseeable fiscal impact to the state.

FISCAL ANALYSIS

Assumptions

1. HB 535 establishes definitions related to the documents and terms used in the uniform criminal extradition act and updates statute to reflect the new terms.
2. Section 18 allows for a court of record, rather than only a district court, to also hold hearings for prior waivers of extradition.
3. Section 21 provides for a court of record, rather than only a district court judge to determine if an extension of time of commitment or bail is necessary while awaiting requisition.
4. While sections 18 and 21 allow courts of limited jurisdiction that are courts of record in addition to district courts to hear and determine findings regarding the arrest of accused without a warrant, the Judicial Branch estimates that the impact to district courts will be immaterial and as such, HB 535 has no foreseeable fiscal impact to the state.
